RESULTS

From the Polygraph

Student Life page 10

The spirit and enthusiasm of the student-body peaked during such exciting activities as Homecoming, Intramurals, and lunch time.

Academics page 32

A series of highs and lows were recorded for the mental capacities of the students. Those who studied, excelled in classes such as Mathematics, English, Science, and Social Studies as well as in Arts, Business, and Home Economics.

The students' participation and dedication to the wide variety of clubs — from Science Club to Vocal Music and Dance to AFS — were measured as high points on the graph.

Sports page 78

The readings indicated a significant change when recording the activity of the athletes. They competed in such sports as waterpolo, cross country, football, softball, and swimming.

Classes page 112

The test monitored an emotional change in the students. New friends were made and old friends became closer. Freshman matured, Sophomores endured, Juniors enjoyed, and Seniors treasured their last year in high school.

Faculty page 178

The teachers and administrators worked at a steady rate throughout the year. Their hard work showed when the students' mental changes were recorded.

Ads page 196

Though the nation's economy experienced a recession, the polygraph detected the students' enthusiasm to spend money. Transactions took place in a wide variety of establishments — everywhere from Del Taco to University Arcade to Ski & Sport.

Charting the Changes

A Polygraph? Students displayed amazement at the thought of submitting themselves to a polygraph. A small minority opposed the idea of being submitted to the polygraph. Yet when they realized that a polygraph was only a lie-detector test, they willingly agreed to take the test. Having little or nothing to hide, all students were asked the selected questions. The polygraph produced startling results.

1. Carrla Toews (12) gets the third degree from Reggie Clark, (12) Amy Bailor, (12) and Colleen Dodd (11). 2. David Hylton (12) has that GQ look. 3. The Norco course is just not enough to stop Nan McKown (10). 4. Meet Kevin Hemborg (12), Hell's Angel. 5. Roger Duncanson (12) and Bill Nelson (11) exclaim, "It is soooooo cute." 6. Derek McKown (11) can't take his eyes off Sabrina Lee (12).

Awesome!

Opinions were evident in the wide variety of responses to the question: "Why did we have more spirit and enthusiasm?" Kevin Hemburg (12) said, "People were more open this year. They didn't care what others thought." Annemarie Picone (9) felt that enthusiasm was in abundance because there was less segregation and more unity. Reggie Clark (12) simply said, "There's more to be happy about." Michelle Malone (10) decided that the enthusiasm was due to "the Seniors. They pulled together and set the example of rowdiness and school spirit for everyone else." Answers to the question "What club do you belong to, and why?" had just as many varied responses. Kim Elste (9) belonged to Jesters because "I thought theater was interesting and I wanted to be involved." Kelly Kennedy (10) belonged to A.F.S. since she thought it was a worthwhile club. Ken Mills (11) joined the Bicycle Club due to his interest in bike riding and people. Whatever the motivation was for joining a club, all enjoyed the time spent with friends.

1. Paulla Tilton (11), Jack Pope (9), Anthony Rhine (11), Scott Warren (12), and Davita Cunningham (9) improve their acting skills. 2. Benny Adkins (11) displays the G.Q. look. 3. Lea Appleton (12) dreams of the future. 4. Steve Martin (10) looks on while Andy Hitt (10) eats an orange and Mike Weber (10) stretches out after the game. 5. Carol Stinchcum (12) looks relieved while in her last registration line.

Amazing Responses

The polygraph continued its readings on the student body while new questions arose. When asked what their favorite class was, the test produced some interesting results. Arts and Crafts was Kym Parker's (11) favorite class because "we did a lot of projects, there was little homework, and the teacher was friendly." For some, lunch became their favorite class. James Kay (9) claimed that "it involved exercise of the

What is the best sport at Poly? Mario Sotelo (9) felt that baseball was the best sport because, "My brother played for the Oakland A's." Kristen Hoyer (10) and Nancy Simmons (10) both exclaimed, "Swimming! We're in it!" Despite the disagreement on the sports, all felt Poly was number one.

1. "Where's Dudley Doowright when you need him" sobs Billy Sackett (12). 2. Cheri Hill (11), Gerald Duncan (12) and Shawn Ginwright (10) are overjoyed that Lisa Woods (11) enjoys her chips. 3. Sandi Alexander (12) proudly shows off the shopping list she made in Home Ec. to Christy Brooks (12). 4. "Set me!" begs Adrienne Drake (9). 5. Bob King (12) ignores school. 6. Mr. Miller and Mr. Davidson have been striding in step since 1966. 7. Alan Wilson (12) finishes off another report card.

Student Life

As students returned to the grind, many found that their horrible nightmares of homework, lectures, and sleepless nights had come true. Fortunately, these nightmares were balanced by the wide variety of activities provided for the students. Once again, lunch became the favorite "period" of the day during which students had a chance to sit back and view the different fads and fashions or, for the more competitive type, participate in such intramurals as hot wheels, three-man volleyball, and arm wrestling. After school body builders participated in jazzercise, health spas, surfing, dance, and many other activities. As Homecoming drew near, there was a mad rush to finish floats and plan for the Homecoming parade, picnic and dance. With Homecoming at an end, students resumed their everyday routine and reminisced about the festivities. The Seniors realized the time had come to start planning for the future. College Day provided Seniors and other students with an opportunity to meet representatives from different colleges.

1. Bob King (12) and Theo White (12) try to impress the Freshman girls with their muscular physique. 2. The Senior Class shows their superiority by their unsurpassed school spirit. 3. Kirsten Monson (12) just laughs at Roger Duncanson's (12) attempt to make a pass at her.

The opening of school revived the brain waves that layed dormant throughout the summer. The freshmen showed enthusiasm in their new school-in hopes of filling their cranial capacity. Finally growing out of the freshman mold, the "egoops" entered the year with more confidence. The lucky new upper classmen were pleased to show off their cars. The seniors thought to themselves, "This is neat!"

The new bell schedule caused some confusion at first, but then people adjusted themselves to it. The idea of having ten minute passing periods came from the administrators. They thought that with longer passing periods some of the tardies would be eliminated.

Bob Hoffman and Gil Dyrr joined the faculty this year. Bob Hoffman taught physics and applied physics, and Mr. Dyrr was the teacher of Motivation.

1. At the thought of starting school, Blythe Skeen (12) can only shake her head while Cathy Endo (12) has great expectations. 2. In his computer class, Joe Adcock (9) studies the latest computer game. 3. Hiding behind his shades, Sam Smith (11) hopes that nobody sees his disorganized locker. 4. Cheri Zausch (11) munches a meatless meal, her first of the week. 5. Sabrina Lee (12) is cool and she knows it. 6. Concentrating on an important note, Laura Brooks (12) blows her heart out. 7. The new crop of greenies line up for their class schedule.

Nothing To Wear? Wear Nothing.

Although different groups of students disagreed on styles, all students took great pride in displaying their idea of a "neat" wardrobe. Watching students parade from class to class in a style of clothing, ranging from punk to preppy, many of the faculty members compared student life at Poly to a bizarre fashion show. What a show it was! A mixture of metallic pumps, penny loafers, vans, dock-siders, espa-drillers, and the ever-popular Nike's scurried through the halls. The introduction of the new vogue look brought mini skirts and padded shoulder blouses; this group fighting for "the look" with those who found 501's, T-shirts, and the increasingly popular sweatsuit to be the peak of their graphs of style.

1. Seeing an opportunity to wave to mom and show off their shiny teeth, slimy tongue, and dazzling eyes, Cathy Endo (12) cannot pass it up; too bad Jennifer Lowry (12) is caught by surprise and Sharon Born (12) is too busy watching Poly being defeated to reveal her best qualities! 2. Bill E. Sackett (9) models the latest in "neat-o" wear (the hood on the head and cigar look), while John Wayne doesn't care about the head-hood, but just wants to get his lit for once. 3. Bernard Mascari (12) is dumbfounded at the position Lisa Poole (11) has put herself in in her attempt to put her best "foot" forward for the photographer. 4. Ann Hubbard (12) writes in her diary about the night before — trying to explain where her clothes are and why she's wearing dirty sheets. 5. Susan Schrader (12) and Bob King (12) react to Theo White's (12) attempted regurgitation of his school made cinnamon roll. 6. David Delorenzo (12) and Doug Stevens (12) model the look of the '80's. 7. Teresa Mangione (10) shows off her brand new school clothes, while friend Nicole Waters (10) (oblivious to the week's new fashion) concentrates on learning the newest disco step.

To Eat Or Not To Eat

Despite the fact that the new bell schedule added a generous two minutes, lunchtime remained relatively unchanged. For most seniors, and a few lucky juniors, the ability to drive to such popular spots as Taco Bell, Carl's Jr., McDonald's and Del Taco became a new-found freedom. Those less fortunate students who were forced to stay on campus had a choice of bringing food made by mom, (seniors made their own) buying food from the cafeteria, usually creating litter for the janitors to pick up, or just not eating.

Another major decision faced by students on campus was where to sit during lunch. This seemed to be determined by the people they hung around with. The most popular gathering places, some used for many years, included such areas as the library steps, the Little Theatre, next to the lockers, the picnic tables, and some new additions like the locker bays in the center of campus, or the new grass in front of the 500's building.

1. Bridget Bridges (11) thinks about more important things as she eats lunch. 2. While dozens of cars crowd their way out of the parking lot, Darren Lehto (9) just sits and watches. 3. Grinning like the Cheshire Cat, Vicki Junkert (11) makes others wonder what she is thinking about. 4. Heading back to empty classrooms, Sarah Mills and Betty James look forward to a short reprieve from their classes. 5. Ramon Macias (11), Jack Lamb (11), Tom Contri (11), and Jose Macias (10) sit down to a welcome break in the day. 6. Dawn Brown (12), Michele O'Neal (12), and Susan Wellenkamp (12) put off going back to class as long as possible. 7. Jim Lichte (10) prepares for an important test. 8. John Wynne (12) prefers dining at a "local" to brown bagging it on campus. 9. No, it's not Big Brother watching you; it's John Simmons (12).

Through the past few years, Poly students have grown accustomed to the average run-of-the-mill competitions. When appointed Commissioner of I.M. and Assemblies, John Conolly (12) abandoned most of the usual events and added many new and exciting ones. Some of Conolly's scheduled duels were: Dungeons and Dragons, Asteroids, an obstacle course, and a triatholon. Preparing us all for summer, the commissioner culminated the year with a legalized ice blocking competition.

1. John Kim prepares to block a smash by one of Brian Nejedly's (11) teammates. 2. John Conolly (12) ponders his future I.M. games. 3. Seeing the KOALA cameraman, Tien Nyguen (10) forgets that he's not supposed to just hang there. 4. At the homecoming assembly, the Freshmen proudly fly their few balloon grams. 5. The two armwrestling champs, Ann Hubbard (12) and LaRoy Alexander (12), attempt to show who belongs to the superior sex. 6. Trying to decipher the cranial capacity of Asteriods, William Sackett (12) realizes he forgot to use his dandruff shampoo this morning. 7. Brian Bannon (12) and Tina Kopcha (12) study the strategy for Dungeons and Dragons.

Many students elected not to do anything fun and exciting — fortunately, a few daring individuals fulfilled their fantasies with many entertaining activities. Students have managed to transform dull Riverside into an exciting place to live. From cruising down Magnolia Avenue in their custom-made VW cruisers and going to the movies with their families, to ice blocking on Canyon Crest's golf course and TPing "friend's" houses. Many students took advantage of UCR's High School University program, and its nightlife at the "Barn."

1. Being punished for an unknown crime, Bruce Campbell (9) experiences a massive blood rush to his head. 2. Pretending to be cutting wood, Blythe Skeen (12) is actually just sharpening her blade for her true out-of-school activity. 3. Practicing for the 1999 Olympics, David DeLorenzo (12) surfs down the Gage canal, amazing his pals at his expertise. 4. Kelly Coyle (9) prepares to walk her horse, just as she discovers horse-walking has become both a fun and exciting sport for the many who like it. 5. Preparing for a new Olympic event in the 2000 Olympics, these Seniors "rev" their motors. 6. This Texan license plate proudly displays its allegiance to the new club, 999. 7. These two unknown kidnappers hold the Poly Gymnasium for ransom. 8. Jumping through the air with the greatest of ease, the amazing crab-man alias Kevin Hemborg (12) lies in for an unscheduled landing in the backyard of an unaware Poly student.

Float Fun

This year's float building changes seemed to be truly successful. Due to the city's shortening the number of units allowed in the parade, clubs were encouraged to double-up in float construction. This, in addition to stricter rules regarding the use of diesel rigs and long flatbeds, helped class and club members make more creative floats than in past years. The brave, or gullible students and families who sponsored float building at their homes, telephones, tools, and food for their organizations, were to be commended.

1. The awesome senior float, 1st place winner because of its obvious superiority, travels down the road blowing smoke from its cigar. 2. On a clear day, the enthusiastic cheerleaders receive an unexpected shower. 3. With Scott Pinalto (11) looking for something to eat, Cathy Endo (12) works diligently to finish the Koala/Spotlight third place float. 4. Cheery Alice, Thea Norman (11) is obviously very happy in her little wonderland; unfortunately, the mouth above her decided to eat her half way through the parade. 5. These band members, Liann Lech (12), Lori Christoplis (12), and Michelle Friedrich (12), show their enthusiasm at the Homecoming picnic. 6. Clueless to the realities of life are Jennifer McNeil (12), Lea Appleton (12), and Martha Denham (12), work diligently filling Helium Balloons for the Senior Class, as Jennifer McNeil (12) looks on. 7. Through many hours of intense work and good advise by adviser Mr. Rice, the Senior float is made possible.

Homecoming Happiness

The excitement of all students was shown during the weeks of Homecoming. Alumni, students, and faculty enjoyed attending the parade, pep rally, and fabulous picnic. The football game, the spectacular half-time presentation, and the "Fairy Tales" Dance brought this day to a memorable conclusion. The advanced technology motivated the Seniors to create a winning float with "Puff the Magic Dragon" moving its head and breathing smoke. Vocal Music ("Pied Piper"), AFS/CSF ("Hansel and Gretel"), and Koala/Spotlight ("Alice in Wonderland") picked up club victories.

1. The CSF/AFS float picks up second place in the club competition — probably due to the ugliness of witch Leslie Holsinger (12). 2. Coach Almquist provides pleasure and excitement to many at the picnic by giving his imitation of the creature from the Blue Lagoon. 3. Unable to even give a kiss away are Reggie Miller (12) and Jenny Read (12) — not even by offering Paula Gooderum (12) a whole bag of candy kisses for just one of hers. 4. With the smog level at a minimum, many students found happiness at the picnic through food, frolicking, and renewing old friendships. 5. Scott Napoli (9) and Malia Lyons (10) show their elation at being chosen to ride on the Girl's League decorated flat bed. 6. Giving the cheerleaders a much needed shower are Christopher Grigsby (12) Matt Turnbull (12), Warren Snider (12), and Bernard Mascari (12). 7. The Drill team dreams of flying off into the wild blue yonder as they attempt to defy gravity.

A Fizzled Finish

The half-time festivities involved the presentation of the Homecoming Queen, Tracy Morrow, and a tremendous performance by the Poly Marching Band. After the devastating victory over North, students enjoyed the Homecoming Dance with entertainment provided by the band "CliqueX". Many fans, excluding the real black bear who represented our mascot, attended this dance and danced to the new wave music that was played.

1. Roxanne Keller (11) rocks to the sounds of Sister Sledge. 2. Unfortunately this crowd is picture shy and won't be persuaded to pose. 3. These Juniors and Seniors assemble in the gym anticipating the presentation of class skits. 4. The original Poly bear eats human fingers for a snack between quarters. 5. Ilka Depkin (12) shows her German style of dancing as she boogies to the beat. 6. Lacking the sufficient knowledge to understand the reason for "Homecoming", Jeff Hein (11) attempts to enlighten himself through meditation at the game. 7. Beating to the sound of jive is a relaxing finish to the long day.

A Dream Come True

Fairytales, Homecoming's theme, made many dreams come true for the court of 1982. Queen Tracy Morrow led her court through this Fairytale come true. Shown below are the princesses: Ilka Depken, Steaphanie Silver, Laura Brooks, Jennifer McNeil, Jennifer Lowry, Gwen Dermody, Jennifer Harriss, Tracy Morrow, Dawn Holmes, Lori Condinus and Valerie Stadelbacher, (not shown Lisa Winship).

1. Former Queen Lisa Wong ('81) shares this eventful night with new Queen Tracy Morrow (12). 2. Night escorts show their chivalry. Tommy Forbes (12), John-Mark Staude (12), Bob King (12), Matt Turnball (12), John Connolly (12), Scott Swindall (12), Jeff Jaech (11), Ted Amidon (12), Andy Morrissey (12), and Danny Moore (12). 3. Lori Condinus (12) is overcome with joy as she becomes first runner up of the Homecoming Court. 4. Tracy Morrow's (12) dream come true as she is crowned Homecoming Queen. 5. Commissioner of Homecoming Becky Peckels (12) and Master of Ceremonies Roger Duncanson (12) wave to the crowd during the parade.

College Day provided students with many opportunities to explore various aspects of colleges and universities, both public and private. Many schools were represented, including Harvard, Pepperdine, San Diego State University, University of Southern California, U.S. Naval Academy, University of California Santa Barbara, and U.C.R.

1. John Kantola (11) seeks information from a Pomona representative and his helper Lori Lazier (12). 2. Cathy and Patty Endo (12) are more interested in eating than assisting the inquisitive Christopher T. Grigsby (12). 3. After learning that no college would accept him, Matt Turnbull (12) turns to fly-catching for a possible living. 4. Too young to think about what they'll do if they graduate, Jimmy

Hawkes (10) and Mickey Miceli (10) enjoy the quiet of the library on College Day. 5. Both dazed and confused at the prospects of college life, Nanette and Lisa Smith (12) attempt to increase their knowledge of after high school options. 6. Robert Jen (12) finds out valuable information from the college of his choice. 7. Susan Wellenkamp (12) learns about UC Santa Cruz from the college's representative.

Academics

1. Stephanie Silver (12) and Valarie Stadelbacher (12) share some gossip. 2. The English Honors IV class try to keep from floating away. 3. With a toss of her head, Carolyn Strong (12) replies, "God, I'm good."

The beginning of the school year snapped many students out of a summer daze into the reality of homework, classes and tests. Some found it hard to return to the old routine while others quickly adapted. Those who adjusted, soon found that they could excel in many of their classes and looked for new, stimulating courses. Several classes provided the students with the excitement they desired. Advanced biology, a new class with an old name, set up new prerequisites to limit the number of students. Mr. Nordeen, the instructor, thought that "by limiting, we created a class with a higher learning ability. This would allow the class to actually perform advanced, high school studies." Applied Physics, another new class, provided students who had a weaker background in math, with the opportunity to learn about Physics. Students interested in the world of computers signed up for the computers class, an er

Missing Freshmen

In past years registration had survived relatively unchanged. Students would congregate in the gym on registration day in shifts according to their class status. Freshmen would always come first, followed by Seniors, Juniors, and Sophomores. This year saw one significant change in the registration process. Missing from the tumultuous registration scene were the Freshmen, who in the past, have traditionally been the cause of much of the registration chaos. This year the Freshmen were registered by computer registration. This new process saved many teachers the trouble of having to explain the registration process over and over again to bewildered Freshmen. Registration, nevertheless, proceeded without the Freshmen, and on September 8, the crowds, noise, and confusion returned to the Poly campus and another school year had begun.

1. Patty Posey (10) takes a little rest while Julie Randles (10) and Monique Violette (10) try to sort through the registration madness. 2. Karen Larson (11) and Beth Holton (11) learn that selecting a few classes isn't always that easy. 3. Eager to start a new and exciting year as Polyites, Jennifer Morrison (9) and Erin Carroll (9) let their enthusiasm show. 4. Matt Forstie (12) dreams of ways to spend Koala funds while Jennifer Lowry (12) and Johnny Perrone (12) try to divide the loot evenly. 5. With a smirk on his face Mr. Ringwald is caught in the process of thinking up some new experiment that will expose his Freshmen students to dangerous chemicals.

Poly students shone brightly as the Academic Decathlon team left the competition with six medals and a total of four thousand dollars in award money. This competition allowed teams from different schools to compete against each other in such academic events as mathematics, literature, and essay writing. On campus, students also did very well. Science students found two new classes to choose from: Applied Physics and Introduction to Biology. These new classes were not the only addition to the Science department. Mr. Robert Hoffman came to Poly from Notre Dame High School to teach Physics. English students learned from a variety of sources. They read from Shakespeare to Shelley and from the Bible to Siddhartha. Math students exhibited their abilities on a series of six-question tests known as the California Mathematics League Tests. These tests gave students exposure to questions which were much different from the average math problems.

1. Demonstrating his version of jewelry, Doug Larson (12) inserts a bone into his nose. 2. Spencer Moehler (12) nervously laughs at the idea of a 20 page term paper. 3. Ilka Depken (12) works intently to discover what her owl had for lunch. 4. After finishing his one-man game of tic-tac-toe, Dave Sailor (12) looks up for a breather. 5. Lea Appleton (12) looks at Carolyn Strong (12) in amazement as Carolyn practices her bird calls. 6. As a fellow student takes a short rest, Stephanie Silver (12) applies a new coat of nail polish. 7. The Academic Decathlon team members pictured here are: Troy Goodwalt (12), Kathy Starling (12), Linda Oakes (12), Carolyn Strong (12), Amy Bailor (12), and John Simmons (12).

Students learned much about the business world and its practices through such classes as Typing, Shorthand, and Office Practice. Miss Bennett's Office Practice classes learned to operate business machines, including copiers, adding machines, and even typewriters which can type approximately 220 words per minute and automatically make corrections. These business-oriented classes taught students important skills which may be of great use to them in future classes and jobs.

Another department, Physical Education, proved to be not only an escape but also an exhilarant for those students who participated in P.E. classes. Students played many sports including football, softball, soccer, volleyball, badminton, and basketball. P.E. gave students that needed break from the humdrum routine of classwork. It also helped many Polyites keep physically fit and mentally sound.

The monotony of classes was broken for a brief moment on November 30th. Lights flickered, trees swayed, and students prayed as the winds of late November roared on. The day began with somewhat mild winds. These winds, however, soon became much more intense. During second period classes the winds hit their peak, knocking out power lines, leaving the Poly campus without power. The intensity and danger of the storm forced administrators to keep students in their classes for nearly two hours. During a lull in the storm a memo sent out by Mr. Rile instructed teachers to allow students to leave classes for lunch. After lunch, students continued to their fourth period classes where they had another extended stay. When the day was over the storm had passed leaving the Poly campus and Southern California in chaos. The winds had blown papers around and toppled many large trees.

Fine and Industrial Arts were, once again, a strong part of Poly's curriculum. Students used their creativity in such classes as Art, Jewelry, Theatre, Drafting, only to name a few. Auto classes enabled students to gain an understanding of the mechanisms of the automobile. Photography students did not merely learn a great deal about photography, but were also able to have some hands-on experience with cameras.

Students let their imaginations soar as they worked on many different and creative projects. Dave Snelgrove (11), a ceramics student said, "It's neat to get to work with your hands and to see the finished product and know that you really made it!" Most Fine and Industrial Art students felt the same way. In general, the Arts allowed students to expand their horizons by using their untapped creative talents.

Get A Job!

Rising costs of cars, college, and dating prompted many students to seek part time employment. With the advantages of proper employment training provided by such programs as Work Experience, and the Regional Occupational Program, many juniors and seniors enjoyed both the advantages and disadvantages of having a job. Although national unemployment effected many families in Riverside, diligent students could usually find a job at one of several fast food "joints" around town because of their fast turnover rates. Some, however, were able to find reasonably enjoyable and unusual jobs at such places as, Bobby McGee's Conglomeration, Farrel's, The Castle, Victoria's Orange, singing telegrams for Luny Balloons, delivering pizzas for Straw Hat or Domino's, modeling, being Santa's helper, house sitting, and many others.

Students displayed their interest in the wide variety of clubs and organizations. For the academically-minded students, the Math and Computer Club (MC<sup>2</sup>), Bear Tracks, Koala and Spotlight proved to be a challenge. Students with an interest in poetry and literature participated in Bear Tracks, a literary magazine. Koala and Spotlight provided students with an opportunity to experience the world of writing and photography.

Band and Orchestra, Chamber Singers and Concert Choir gave students a chance to express themselves through their music.

Two new clubs, the Ski Club and Humanities, reappeared on the campus after an absence of two years. Ski Club raised spirits during Christmas vacation as members headed for the slopes. Humanities, the largest club, provided a wide variety of cultural activities for the members to participate in.

Aspiring Minds Perspire

The science club made its appearance for the second year with many exciting trips. Going to the La Brea Tar Pits proved to be both a learning experience and something of an adventure. The highlight of the year, as far as increasing knowledge and being interesting, was the trip to the UCLA Medical Center. Seeing anatomy cases, how x-rays were done in the Radiology Department, the dental school were only preparatory events in anticipation of the observance of open-heart surgery on a dog. Overall, the many future scientists in the Science Club found fun and insight to what life as a scientist might be.

The California Scholastic Federation served to recognize students with high GPA's and encourage them to have a little fun. Ice skating, and the famous Disneyland trip topped the activities list, the skating taking great determination. The rides at Disneyland again proved entertaining for these young scholars' minds.

The Ski Club was revived to new life with the arrival of much snow this year. Their activities included skiing, skiing, and skiing.

Spirit Rocks Richter

"We were so united!" — Tamu Shaw (10)

"We were totally crazy!" — Sheryl Miller (12)

"We were super spirited!" — Kim Kjos (9)

Pep Squad became a true-spirited organization as they generated enthusiasm throughout Bear Country. The athletic teams were never supported better. Most of the contributions from Poly's Pep Squad came from their overwhelming unity and the leadership of their Commissioner of Pep, Tracy Morrow (12). Many awards were won at their summer camp at U.C.S.B. which resulted in many successful Pep Rallies. The cheerleaders, song-leaders, and flag squad brought all their talents together for a combination of spirit, leadership, and performing ability. Mary Joseph, their advisor, truly proved her talent as an instructor in the area of spirit by promoting cheerleading as a very honored duty and a very important part of Poly High School. When asked of a one word description to describe the entire Pep Squad, a unanimous response was, "We're C-R-A-Z-Y!" Although they were not exactly crazy, they were definitely #1.

Decisions . . .

Kathy Starling (12), Commissioner of Activities, stated that, "The highlight of the year for the Activities Council was the preparation for the Mid-Winter Ball." Of the House of Advisory, Speaker Tommy Forbes (12) said, "The changes in the Constitution we made will positively effect the students at Poly in the years to come." Philip Floyd (12), Chief Justice, was encouraged by the justices' determination to become a more active part of Poly's student government.

Be All You Can Be — ROTC

In preparation for defense of the future generations of America, Poly's ROTC worked diligently throughout the year. This hard work culminated at the midyear annual Military Review. # Playing For Time

The Marching Band did many fun things — the most important and time-consuming being the host for the Lester-Oakes Memorial Band Review. Arranging for bands to come from all over California, providing judges, organizing food in-take facilities, and more made for a good overall show. Hosting the band concert festival, participating in many field show and street competitions, and the addition of the new drill team caused happiness among band members and followers.

The orchestra, these stringed instruments being the hardest to play, provided musical entertainment for those viewing the annual musical play, and for anyone else who was listening.

Vocal Music Really Swings

"The vocal program had one of the best musical groups in Southern California. They followed a very busy schedule of rehearsals and performances throughout the year," claims Mr. Morris. The Mixed Choir toured and sang at such places as the Disneyland Festival of Lights, the Carlsbad Tour., the Riverside County Festival and presented their Christmas and Spring Concerts. Along with their musical talent, these students had to master singing in a little different tongue, for many of their songs were written in a foreign language. The Chamber Singers had a concert at Benedict Castle, and as many as thirty-six Christmas performances, two television programs, and the Chapman Festival. Chamber Singers is a group of the best vocalists from the combined choirs and is composed of both male and female. An all-female group, the Girl's Ensemble, also toured Carlsbad and sang at the Christmas and Spring performances. To these groups came several honors.

Sixteen singers out of Poly's choir were chosen in the Riverside Company Honor Choir and eight singers were listed in Who's Who in American High Schools. "All groups had a year they can be proud of," states Mr. Morris when reflecting on 1982-1983.

The Math and Computer Club enabled students to gain a greater knowledge of computers and computer related math. The club raised money through a holiday fund-raiser. Some of this money was used to finance club activities, while the remainder was left in the club's account. Bear Tracks, Poly's literary magazine, also had a very good year. The staff, led by John Simmons (12), editor, produced another incredible issue. Marilyn Kraft, a staff member exclaimed, "It was a lot of work but we worked hard and with Mrs. Herring's help, we did it!"

Exchange students Ilka Depken (12) and Keiko Kamiya (11) came from Germany and Japan respectively. They not only learned about the American way of life, but also shared their cultures with other Poly students. Lea Appleton (12), an AFS member, summed up the club's philosophy well in stating, "It's a great feeling to participate in a cultural exchange like this. You can learn so much!"

Steppin' Out with the stars.

Many students who passed by Poly's dance room noticed many talented girls dancing to the beat. This group of girls well-noted for their enthusiasm and style in their dance steps were following the techniques of Mrs. Patricia Snelgrove, Poly's instructor in modern dance. These girls worked extremely hard the second semester of school to choreograph and perform dance routines for the 1983 Dance Show, an annual event.

A new club erupted at the beginning of the year. Being one of the most active clubs on campus, Humanities emerged as the largest club. They began their year with a trip to Hollywood to see a taping of "Too Close for Comfort." This trip along with selling candy bars and visiting the Mission Inn made this club successful.

It's All In The Timing . . .

Although the Bowling team received little recognition on campus, they received much more off campus. Satisfaction and a feeling of self worth kept them going strong and if this was not enough, their skill and dedication helped them to defeat their rivals and more importantly: To have fun.

The Jamual Bears, a new club on campus in which members run long distances, had one major project: To run across the state of California. Painstaking preparation was made to insure them of success. The concentration needed for an event like this was built up to give them an extra boost. The money raised by this run went to the Riverside Youth Service Center.

Club activities included running before and after school along courses which were planned beforehand. This showed great dedication to their purpose.

Our dominion over the Ivy League once again held true. Many sports, ranging from Waterpolo to Baseball, Track to Softball used their talents and the aid of their coaching staff to defeat their rivals. But these successive wins did not come as easily as it seemed. Hours upon hours of rigorous training and exercise gave these teams the boost they needed to clench their titles. Although the workouts and routines differed for each sport, the sweat and hard work remained the same. In order to win a game, the teams also had to prepare mentally. This included pep talks, concentration and prayers. By the end of these important rituals, the teams' spirit and enthusiasm hyped them up and overwhelmed that of their opponents. If that was not enough, their natural talents and strengths helped to defeat the competition.

For a team of underdogs, the Poly High Varsity Football Team performed beyond everyone's expectations. Eric Schlesener (11) points out that "without their strong Senior leadership, we wouldn't have come so far." The team's co-captains, Mike Wong (12) and Teddy Taylor (12), revived the much-needed team spirit and enthusiasm which attributed to their highly successful season. To LaRoy Alexander (12), this spirit evoked "a high" which allowed him to "feel good, really good." Outstanding offensive players, such as

Donnie Bulmer (11), Ricky Merriman (11), and Brian Nejedly (11), proved the offensive line to be a key influence. Although the offense received most of the glory, a strong defensive line, with starters Shawn Goodsite (12), Jeff Lewis (12), and Steve "Norma" Sigloch (10), held its own. The game with cross-town rival, Ramona, climaxed the season with Poly's victory. Reggie Clark's (12) crucial interception with a few minutes left in the game enabled Poly to clinch the Ivy League title.

Even though Stacy Hunt's (10) uniform read "Howt," the girls volleyball team did not misspell the Ivy League title. Beating Norte Vista two out of three times, they wrapped up a near-perfect season with a 14-wins and 1-loss record. Even though they lost in second round CIF, the girls had a good season. "Our success this year was due to the depth of our team," said Kelly Obeso (12). Sabrina Lee (12) added, "All the players were fairly equal in skills with no one really being outstanding, so we played well together as a team." Kelly Obeso (12) won the Ivy League's Most Valuable Player award and Ann Hubbard (12) and Sue Schraeder (12) were members of All League First team respectively. Coach Bob Bushman said, "I was very surprised Kelly won Most Valuable Player because there was a lot of competition. She is excellent at setting spikes for her team members." "The JV team has many setters and spikers," said JV Coach Julie Ortman. "We have potential and I'm looking forward to next season to prove this potentiality." The JV team finished with a 12-wins and 3-loss record.

Sporting a team of six All-Ivy First Teamers, the 1982 Waterpolo squad prevailed over the Ivy League. Seniors John Connolly, Mike Hallisey and Alan Wilson took the honor for the second consecutive year and Hallisey received the League MVP Award. Juniors Don Wight, John Read and Andy Busch were also named to the First Team. Art Gage received Second Team Honors and John Simmons, Honorable Mention. The Bears clinched the Ivy title, beating their league rival, Indio, 11-5. Read and Wilson led the team in defense, Read giving up only one goal in the hole and Wilson averaging 12 blocks a game. John Connolly was the team's leading scorer and gave outstanding performances against Los Amigos and Foothill for which he received the Press-Enterprise's Prep Athlete of the Week Award. The Junior Varsity Team, with a 5-5 record, was coached by Clay Simpson and led by Juniors Kenny Mills and Jack Lamb. After losing some runners due to various reasons, the cross country team had something to prove. Not only did they have to make themselves believers, but also their coach, Gary Hunt, who was quite disturbed about the loss of two runners who chose not to run any longer.

Despite what Hunt described as "loss of depth," the boys were able to capture second place, while the girls managed third in

Ivy. Although third place is not high enough for CIF competition, the girls, behind co-captains Julie French (12) and Lesli Rapp (12), squeezed into the post-season meet by nipping the Norte Vista girls in the Ivy League meet.

Two Seniors who contributed greatly to team spirit and personal support for Coach Hunt were Matthew Forstie and John Mark Staude. What made Hunt especially proud of them compared to other runners in his nine years here was not only their athletic ability but their unselfish nature. Proudly, Hunt said, "They were not only running for themselves, but for the entire team." Staude attributes "Hunt's dedication to the team as a whole, and the satisfaction of achieving personal goals" for his four years of long distance running.

Not surprising anyone, the girls breezed to an additional Ivy League championship. Many outstanding individual performances were given by number one and two seed Michele Hain (11) and Captain Jenne Harriss (12). Tina Kopcha (12) and Jeanne Thoele (12), along with Heidi Hofmann (11) and Cathy Muller (11), combined to make outstanding doubles teams. When asked what strange occurrences she recalled most with Thoele,

Kopcha replied, "I remember during our Junior year Jeanne and I were so excited about beating San Marino's number one doubles team, that we ended up losing to their number three." Talent is not all that sets Poly's tennis team apart from its league competition. Coach Vera Stricker stated, "I think it's their dedication to the sport. They practice between two and three hours a day. They want to win and they work hard for it."

The expectations of next year's Varsity squad are promising due to the success of the Junior Varsity. The strong performances of Tom Ostrowski (10) and Tom Gayer (11) combined with the comic relief of Steve Martin (10) contributed to their undefeated season. These victories extended their winning streak to a 19-0 overall record.

The Freshman ended the season with an impressive 4-1 record in league. A strong defensive line held the opponents to a standstill, while Quarterback Bruce Campbell (9) guided the offense. When asked about the season, Joshua Paxton (9) exclaimed, "We whooped everyone!"

Goals . . .

1. Although Ben Mascari (12) is in control of the situation, Tobin White (12) gives him a conspicuous target in case trouble arises. 2. Ziggy Ford (12) dares the Ramona opponent to get around him. 3. Tobin White pulls down a rebound with fierce conviction in the championship game against the North Huskies at Raincross. 4. After a break-away, Greg Mathews (11) gets in some "stuffing" practice. Junior Varsity members are: (Front Row) Dion Downey, Brian Johnson, Jon Anderson, Bruce Campbell, Todd

Not only is the Poly Boys Basketball Team unique in talent, but also in the fact that five of its seven Seniors have been playing together since Junior High: Mike Sompayrac, Ziggy Ford, Tobin White, David Myers and Reggie Miller. Captain Tobin White explains some of the advantages to having played together for so long, "You know where they're going to be on the court in certain situations and can anticipate what they will do before they even do it." Dan Bennett and Ben Mascari are also two of Poly's talented Senior starters.

The Bears began the season by participating in the most exciting and renowned tournament, The Riverside County Holiday Basketball Tournament at Raincross Square. The Bears met the North Huskies in the championship game in which the final seconds determined the outcome. The lead changed hands throughout the fourth quarter, but due to two steals by the Huskies in the final seconds, the Bears lost 68-64. Miller and Myers were the high scorers with 21 and 16 points respectively. White also had an outstanding game scoring 15 points and pulling down 8 rebounds. Although Ben Mascari plays point guard, he scored 10 points and was a crucial asset to the Poly defense. Miller, Myers, and White were named to the All-Tournament Team.

What a year for sports! This was by no means an exception for soccer. With such prominent players as Captain Brian Bannon (12), one of the most outstanding goalies in the league, Captain Felix Jorin (12), setting the scoring pace and David Cole (12) and Brian Thomson (12), adding strength with their veteran experience, the team "headed" for victory. The pre-season loss against Calexico proved disappointing, but the team came back with explosive triumphs against Norco 9-2, Victor Valley, and Coachella Valley. Coach Tilson comments that the team is not doing as well as expected because of the inability to capitalize on the opponent's mistakes, but they realize they have a lot of room for improvement and have set their goals high. John Wynne (12) says, "The team is young and needs time to adjust to one another." Aside from these criticisms, the Varsity Soccer team is shooting for their fifth undefeated season in league and according to Cole, "... is expected to go all the way!" The Junior Varsity team proved to be as tough as the Varsity. Through the leadership of Captains Roger Sprockett (10) and Kent Staude (11), the team displayed true Poly supremacy.

Rebound . . .

Younger players gave the Girls' Basketball team a new look. Even though Poly was no longer invincible, they still were a strong competitor. All the girls should be applauded, not only for their physical accomplishments, but for their outstanding sense of athletic character. In pre-season tournaments the Bears came out fighting, beating Chino, Ragette, Victor Valley, and Fountain Valley, only losing to a few number-one ranked teams; Alta Loma 4A, San Gabriel 3A, and top ranked Edison. The Varsity squad, primarily consisting of underclassmen, found leadership in its three returning seniors: Joanne Haselrig (12), Kelly Obeso (12), and Clarissa Poole (12). With the hard work and dedication of the Junior Varsity, Poly can look forward to a promising future. It was a long, rough road for the Bears, but they never lost sight of their goal: to retain their reign as Queens of the Ivy League.

Aces . . .

"Incredibly invincible" proved to be an appropriate motto for the racqueteers, the playoff-accustomed group of guys. Slicing, smashing, and scoring at incredibly consistent paces enabled the men to scramble past North (Ivy's runner-up) each time to once again capture the league crown.

With all the free-wheeling personalities on the team, they soon reflected upon many hilarious moments they had shared. Johnny Perrone (12) commented, "I remember my most awesome serve. It spun like I've never seen a tennis ball spin before. Unfortunately, the entire racquet had slipped out of the grip, which was still in my hand." "We had a lot of fun giving Shawn Goodsite (12) his "Yellow Shoes" nickname," replied Ben Mascari (12). Concerning the team as a whole, Matt Nagle (12) stated, "The team has been together for four years. We all had fun and our games improved despite having four coaches in as many years."

The new coach, Keith King, began the new year with a different style and attitude. He exposed them to heavy conditioning, and did not let up through the entire year.

Although student supporters flocked to football, baseball, and basketball games, they seemed to overlook the fast-paced action of the tennis team. "I don't understand why the girls' tennis team gets all the supporters and they seem to miss us." Chris Weggeland (11) joked.

Once again the Boys' Swim Team prevailed both as a team and individually. Whether the top varsity swimmer or the greenest of newcomers, the sport of swimming always provides a challenge for the individual to better his own performance. This sort of intensity was evident on the Poly Swim Team, and the team as a whole benefited. . The year-round swimming of

Mike Irving (10) and Greg Hallisey (10) proved that this sort of dedication pays off with consistently faster times. The fact that many of the outstanding swimmers will be returning comes as another promising factor. Leadership, of course, played a significant role in the Bears' success, and Captain John Connolly (12) filled that part perfectly.

The Poly Badminton Team survived a rough season with chins high and beaming with pride. Returning senior Susan Wellenkamp (12) brought last year's team spirit and spread it around to all of the incoming freshmen. Basically a very young team, Poly performed up to everyone's expectations and predicts an encouraging future. Under the supervision of Coach Howe, these underclassmen were also assured competent and outstanding instruction.

For a team that has absolutely dominated league competition and has proved to be a serious threat in the CIF playoffs, the Girls' Swim Team continued to uphold their intimidating reputation. Who could expect less with three-year All-American Sandy Alexander (12) on their side? Co-Captain Kirsten Monson (12) stated that their success was due to the "team's unity and spirit." Seniors Sharon Born (12), Brooke Rogers (12), Jenny Reed (12),

Terry Ward (12), Monson, and Alexander provided leadership and inspiration for the promising new freshmen swimmers. Freshman members, Becky Rile (9), Brooke Lewis (9), and Robin Monson (9), were so encouraging they were able to secure varsity positions. Taking into account the Poly Swim Team's past records and their prospects for the future, they have nearly established themselves as a legend in their own time.

Workouts . . .

Earning the respect of the other league teams was a great form of motivation for the underdog baseball squad. Unlike most teams at Poly, the baseball team practices throughout the whole year. With these practices the team could concentrate on the common situations found when playing in the highly competitive Ivy League. Not having to bring many of the JayVee up to Varsity, this year's team already had experience working as a team. Having this varsity experience proved to be a plus for the past season. Coach Rich Graves worked the team hard with extensive sprints and calisthenics to prepare the team for the league, and kept the workouts going throughout the year. "This year our pitching and infield has improved a great deal. We also had a longer preseason and a summer league. We were more motivated and have a better overall team," states Rick Cobb (11). Now that the team is past the rebuilding stage, and most of the starting Varsity players were Juniors, the team has a promising future.

Aggression

The Varsity Softball team made outs and scored runs in their best season yet. Coach Steve Nordeen provided a new twist, and made the whole team work for their positions. This severe competition caused massive aggression among the females. Team Captain Ann Hubbard (12) stated:

"Many of us on Varsity have been with the team since we were sophomores, and so we couldn't help but get better each year."

With the pitching/catching team of Tina Francisco (11) and Patty Posey (11), the opposing batters had little chance of even hitting the ball. But even if they did hit the ball, Cheri Summers' (12) excellent arm stopped many players in their tracks. Star Cathy Endo (9) noted, "Our fielding needed improvement at first, but with my awesome ability and radical playing we were soon executing plays perfectly!"

The JV Team had a good year as far as scoring runs and having fun. The players will be more than ready to take the place of the many openings left by the departing Seniors. Whether or not the Varsity will be ready for them is something that only good coaching and much practice will decide.

Swinging ...

Although the Poly Golf Team did not gain much recognition, this is no indication of their talent. Coached by Mr. Sage and led by Captain Ben Theobald (11) and outstanding players, Warren Snider (12) and Stan Young (11), the golf team maintained one of the most impressive records in the league, winning league 7 times in the past 8 years. Playing and practicing at the Victoria Country Club, the golf team competed against such rivals as Palm Springs and Indio. According to Brian Welch (11), "We set our goals high and expect to live up to them." (Story for track on following two pages.)

Introduced to a new and sophisticated world, the Freshmen entered high school full of awe and apprehension. The new lifestyle came as a shock at first, but as the year wore on, the Epsilons became familiar with their new surroundings.

Sophomores enjoyed their step up the ladder. Having completed the second year of their high school career, the Egoops matured and became worldly Polyites.

Juniors looked forward to their third year of high school and their new position as upperclassmen. The Sucklings, determined to have a great year, involved themselves in everything from athletics to Commission.

Yet it was the Seniors who proved to be the most outstanding class. They proved their unity by working together and winning first place for their class float at Homecoming. The Seniors treasured their fourth and final year of high school.

SENIORS!!

Senior Class/115

Seniors Take the Final Plunge!

Joining their officers, the Senior Class took the final plunge in their high school career. From here, many will go on different routes to meet their lifetime goals. The traditional "Senior Slump" slowed, but did not halt their enthusiasm. They won first place for their float, Puff the Magic Dragon, at Homecoming and organized a fun-filled evening at the Senior Picnic with the movie "Murder By Death". After mailing applications to the college of their choice, many Seniors were able to let go and begin to enjoy their Senior year. Finally, Commencement Process began and through the fun of the pseudo awards, the seriousness of baccalaureate, and the climax of Graduation — High School was over!!!!

Senior officers taking the final plunge are: Lea Appleton — Social Chairman, Jennifer McNeil — Secretary, Ann Hubbard — Vice-President, Jenne Harriss — Treasurer, Jill Reves — President

We've got more! — The Class of 1984!

It's often heard that your Junior year is the toughest. Most people, in all honesty, will agree. A portion of studious Juniors spent hours studying for the PSAT/MNSQT, SAT, ACT, and Achievement tests. Other Juniors busily worked on Homecoming, Mid-winter and the Prom. Their work paid off. All three were tremendously successful and for the first time in years the Prom was held at the Disneyland Hotel. Unanimously, the toughest part of "Junior-hood" was stifling the desire to use his/her newly-acquired driver's license instead of studying. The spirit of the Class of 1984 was overwhelming. For once during an early morning Pep Rally, the Juniors actually won a class competition.

The worst is over for the class of 1984. Next year they only have to avoid the inevitable senior slump and remember this is their final year. The SUCKLINGS distinctly proved in every way that they were better-than-ever!!

Focusing on making 1982-83 a memorable year, the Junior class officers enthusiastically began with the primary goal of raising funds for the Junior/Senior Prom.

Following the Homecoming theme, Fairy Tales, the Juniors built a fantastic float, "A Whale of a Class." The Junior class skit, tastefully put together, won first place at the Homecoming rally.

The Sucklings started with a car wash and a bake sale followed by the traditional Hello Dance and "Family Feud." New to Poly's fund-raising ideas was a limousine raffle. Selling St. Patrick's Day grams, candy, and tickets for other car washes, the Juniors completed their goal. The memorable night of May 13 at the Disneyland Hotel — the Juniors presented an unforgettable Junior/Senior Prom.

Through hard work, dedication, success, failure and fun, the Junior class officers made the year work. Thanks to all the class officers, the class of 1984 has set its mark upon PHS — to return next year and live it up!

1982-83 Officers — (Bottom to Top) —

I remember watching the Freshmen and insisting that I was never that funky!!

— Jennifer Graham

1. To show his sympathy, Greg Mathews gives Vince Velez a big hug — but still can't believe Vince is walking around backwards! 2. Though Jennifer Graham and Traci Bice have spirited smiles, what they are thinking about may not be the Friday night game. 3. Suave as ever, David Rosenblum approaches another unsuspecting freshman with his famous line, "My place or yours?" 4. Trying to read the music from the ground, Tanya Townsend shows her skill at playing the flute. 5. "Another test — OH BOY!" exclaims Kathy Kjos as Mrs. Herring pops up with a simple 3-page test.

Egoops: The Class of '85

The Sophomore class showed their spirit by doing various activities throughout the year. They began with the famous Dunk Tank at the Homecoming Picnic. They continued the year with a popsicle sale in February. March and April featured a candy sale, and they concluded with a fantastic car wash in May. The Sophomores are well on their way to a successful Junior-Senior Prom and a great graduation.

1. Carol Harrison is shocked as she spots her boyfriend with another girl. 2. Andi Folsom and Nicole Waters love being surrounded by friends. 3. The Sophomores were led by Perry Hughes, Treasurer; Michelle Malone, Social Chairman; Diana Gibson, Secretary; Gretchen Walsh, Vice President; and Susan Flynn, President. 4. By putting their hands in their pockets, Todd Reed and John Stuart (11), try to imitate Quentin Robertson's cool look. 5. "I use Close-up!" exclaims Catja Gylov. 6. Now that Steve Cottrell has a Le Tigre shirt, he confidently awaits the crowd of girls to "Hold that Tiger." 7. The Sophomore class patiently awaits the end of the pep rally.

Freshman Pride

The Epsilons were not slowed down by the everyday struggle of being freshmen and made a victorious attempt to bring "new spirit" to our spiritually depressed atmosphere. During the homecoming, Winnie-the-Pooh led their float to a second place honor. The dart throwing booth at the homecoming picnic went off with a bang. With their spirit the Epsilons in the next three years, may bring spirit to Poly High once again.

1. Robin Borden (12) tries to push Mrs. Elwell out of her seat in her attempt to raise her grade. 2. "No, I'm sorry, I won't give you an A," says Mr. Krull. 3. Mr. Harriss counsels LesLee Ekwall (12) in her college plans.

Showing a little concern at the thought of revealing their innermost secrets, faculty members overcame their apprehension and submitted to the polygraph. Only one deep dark secret was revealed: teachers really do like their students.

Of the many rewards Mr. Rile has as principal, he stated his favorite to be, "The opportunity to be involved in the many student activities." Speaking of Poly, he proudly said, "It's a neat school. Every school has its problems. We probably have fewer." Mr. Rile once again kept the administration running smoothly, and helped to make the schools academic standards quite high.

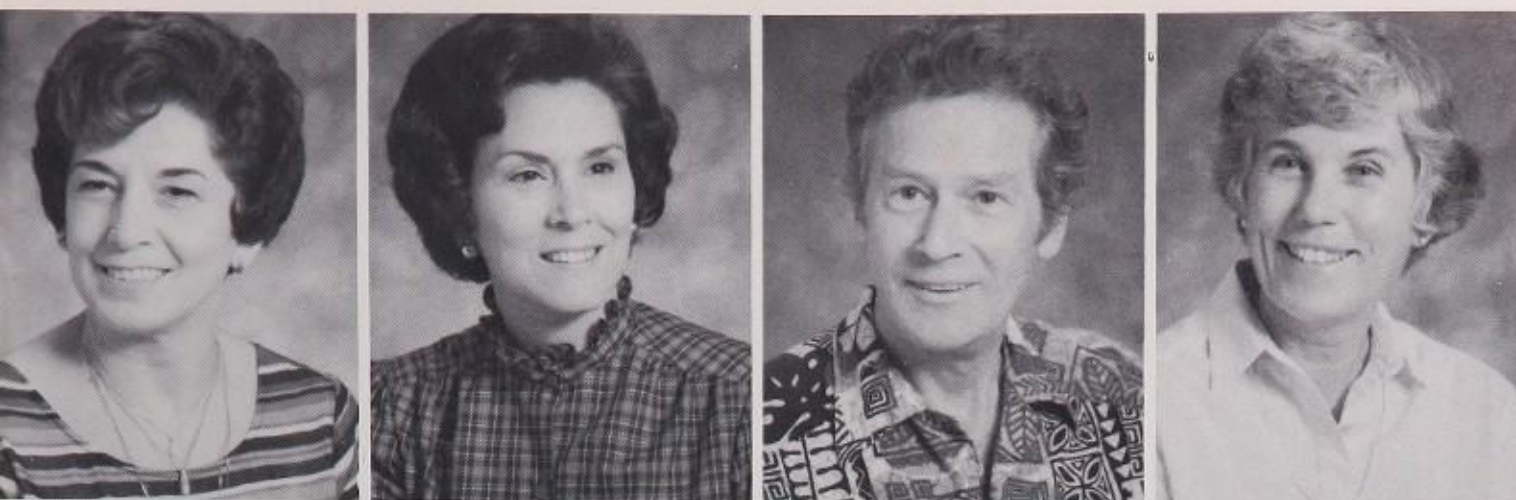

As the counselors helped bewildered students decide which tests to take and which colleges to apply to, the secretaries in attendance listened to some wild excuses for absences and tardies. "I had to stay home and catch the man to fix the water heater," was the plea of one student.

Overseeing the district's functions was the School Board, which evaluated, managed, and contemplated the many problems and events of the schools. Some of their major concerns were the activities fee, the eligibility requirements for athletes, and the financial situation of the District.

1. Steve Matulis (11) addresses the School Board. Members seated left to right are: Mr. William Wiley, Vice-President; Mrs. Maxine Frost, Member; Dr. Clark Cox, Superintendent; Dr. Wesley Wright, President; Dr. Roger Ransom, Member; and Mrs. Ardice Bailor, Clerk.

"Steinbeck!" replied Mr. Berg concerning his favorite author. Mrs. Vennekotter revealed that she likes authors Will Styron and Negaio Marsh. Mrs. Pope, when asked what part of English is her favorite to teach, replied, "Composition. Through it you find out about kids. It reveals their personality." Mrs. Herring, head of the English Department, favors the works of Herman Melville and Saul Bellow. Mrs. Herring, also the Spotlight advisor, felt the most difficult part of helping with the newspaper was to, "help individual writers feel part of the whole paper." By providing final judgement, Mrs. Herring also advised the literary magazine, Bear Tracks. Mrs. Roberts taught the Senior Honors English which was praised by Dan Bennett (12) who said, "The competition offers a more challenging atmosphere." Liann Lech (12) remembered a moment in this honors class when, "Chris Grigsby (12) dragged his backpack around on a leash like it was a puppy."

One business class offered was Office Practice, taught by Ms. Bennett, in which students ran an actual money-making business of doing secretarial work for the school and community. Ms. Bennett said that the class is beneficial because, "... students learn by doing things for other people."

Studying Our World

"We can't afford to replace obsolete equipment," cited Mr. Ringwald, head of the Science Department, on the lack of funds for the science classes.

Mr. Nordeen remarked that he had to make do with sub-standard materials for dissections, and that some of the Basic Science classes did not have enough textbooks. Despite a low budget, two new classes, Applied Physics and Introduction to Biology, were added to meet the needs of students. These classes were also taught in the hopes of attracting more students to the science fields. In order to help out and improve the department, Mr. Nordeen's Advanced Biology class spent second semester conducting research that served as a grant proposal to get money for an ongoing research project. The students studied aggression and violence in humans and then defined a problem dealing with this research relevant to our lifestyles. This problem served as a proposal for funding to buy equipment and to carry out the research in future classes.

Mr. Hoffman, the new Physics teacher, commented, "Students are polite and courteous here." He also commented that the campus needs more trees. Having taught Math and Physics at Notre Dame High School before his present job, Mr. Hoffman has found that he basically likes teaching all students.

2. "Now I know I put that test somewhere!" says an exasperated Mrs. James. 3. Struggling to turn off the valve, Mr. Hoffman realizes that another student has attempted to gas the Science Department. 4. Mr. Krull has that special sparkle in those baby blue eyes.

Students fed programs, worked with "for next" loops, and prepared high resolution graphics in the new computer class. Mrs. Ramsey and Mr. Sage were the driving force in the quest for technological courses. Three Apple II plus computers were chosen for class use. These computers were picked because of the availability and the prices of the software. The computer program was made possible by a Bank of America grant of $11,000.

Mr. Hodges, math department head, had the challenge of teaching the calculus class. Many students rated this class as the hardest on campus. Philip Floyd (12) is an exception, for he stated, "Math comes naturally, so it isn't very difficult." John-Mark Staude (12) likes calculus because, "All the cute and intelligent girls are in it."

Once again Mr. Hodges was pleased by the results of the California Mathematics League Exam. The exam consisted of six tests taken for academic competition in math, with six schools in the county and over 200 statewide.

"He is an excellent teacher and a great friend which has made teaching with him a great experience," commented Mr. Miller on retiring teacher Mr. Davidson. Mr. Davidson has taught here since 1957, and in this time, his team teaching with Mr. Miller has been recognized nationally. Perhaps what has made his history lectures so captivating, is the outside research he and his partner do for their classes. When World War 2 broke out, Mr. Davidson was in medical school. In the war, he served on the demolition squad, was a frogman, and became a Lt. Commander in the Navy. Many students remembered him for his short haircuts and his colorful pants. His wife cuts his hair, and he sews his own pants!

Mr. Sartini stated, "He is amazing in his dedication to his students." Mrs. Thometz said, "Sticking it out this day and age is not easy." She attributed his many years of service to the fact that he, "Truly loved his job." Mr. Miller summed up Mr. Davidson's success by declaring, "He tried to make teaching a fun thing, while getting as much knowledge across as possible."

Knowledge of law, speaking abilities, and reasoning techniques were some of the skills gained by students who participated in the State Mock Trial Competition. Mrs. Thometz led students in simulating a court case in which students acted out the parts of witnesses, lawyers, and clerks in a Superior Court. This experience added to the knowledge gained in the classroom.

The preppy movement and the influence of the Ivy League schools contributed greatly to the new popularity of Latin classes, according to Mr. Webb. He was thrilled at the enrollment, for he stated, "Latin is the best means of learning the English language, along with providing a background for modern romance languages." Under the leadership of Mrs. Norton, the Language department also offered studies in French, German, and Spanish.

From weight lifting to aerobics, the P.E. department offered a variety of classes appealing to all who wished to join the fitness craze. Even the non-interested students found the scuba classes exciting. Scuba was taught free-of-charge, every period of the day, for 4 weeks with a positive response. Trips were even taken to the beach and Catalina. Outside of instructing students, Mrs. Stricker enjoys swimming and tennis, while Coach Almquist enjoys fishing. Coach Gard's favorite sports are football and basketball. Mr. Maurer stated that the P.E. department helped students find a sport that they can participate in for the rest of their lives. He stated, "Sports is a miniature outlook on life. It shows students how to handle setbacks and how to relax." Coach Almquist summed it by saying the P.E. classes taught, "values that assist one in getting along with others, but most importantly, to have fun while you play sports."

Mastering the Arts

Although funding posed problems for many classes, students continued with their interests and talents in the arts. In Mr. Eckert's photo/silk classes, students had the opportunity to work with studio lighting, high contrast and color film, and enlargers. Students had many opportunities to work with ceramics and wood in the Industrial Arts classes.

Mr. Lewis taught at Gage as well as Poly and still managed to take the band to field show competitions, parades and perform in concerts. The vocal music department, under the fast-paced direction of Mr. Morris, had a very busy Christmas and concert season. The theater department continued with excellent acting experiences. Lea Appleton (12) and Amy Bailor (12) said that being involved in the Fine Arts department had given them, "the opportunity to be creative with a good group of people. We could make music and could be crazy at the same time."

1. Mr. Koehler threatens violence toward any student who laughs at his room decoration. 2. As students try to negotiate grades, Mr. Torbert stubbornly refuses. 3. Debating whether or not the note is an E flat or an F are Mr. Morris and Jennifer Peterson. (10) 4. Mr. Abry wonders whether or not to send the play to Broadway.

With the aid of a computer programmed to dispense facts and figures on colleges and occupations of all types, and many valuable files, Mrs. Kreigh guided students in finding information on colleges and careers of their choice. In its banks, this computer held information on 4-year and 2-year colleges, graduate schools, and military academies all over the United States.

Under the direction of Mrs. Deluhery, students had the opportunity to work in and manage the new faculty restaurant, the Koala Korner, while gaining valuable on-the-job experience. The Home Economics department also provided students with information and new skills for life after graduation. The library continued its special attention to the needs of students desperately searching for that last term paper source, or just that secluded, quiet place in which to study with the aid of librarians Mr. Cook, and retiring Mrs. Rath. James Dottery and Tyrone Dunn, always in communication with their walkie-talkies, kept the campus safe. They always had a smile or a cheery word for everyone. The Drivers' Education department taught students the hazards and the excitement of learning to drive.

Mr. Dyrr, a new addition to the faculty, helped students with special needs to reach their full potential. Mrs. Elste, also a new addition, along with Mrs. Pray, taught academic subjects in their motivational classes.

Reaping The Harvests

Many awards were received during the course of the year by Poly students acknowledging achievement both in and out of the classroom. They were awarded in all areas, including economics, English, math, the arts, home economics, citizenship, and leadership.

Judges used varying methods to determine winners: application, essay, GPA, recommendation, service, overall achievement, and creativity all of which demonstrated the students' overall ability.

One of the highest awards is given by the Bank of America. Each year the Bank of America recognizes exceptional achievement in academic and vocational areas. A plaque award is given to students exhibiting talents in specific areas, and who were actively involved in the community. A certificate recognizes additional exceptional students.

California Girls' State and Boys' State representatives are juniors chosen for citizenship. The representatives become a part of a mock government to learn more about our state level government.

Many of the awards involved money to be used for furthering education. All involved high esteem and honor.

Overall, Poly students won several thousands of dollars for achievement, and maintained the reputation of excellence.

1. Bank of America plaque winners are seniors: Carolyn Strong, Jill Reves, and Martha Denham. Not pictured certificate winners are seniors: John Simmons, Robert Jen, Mike Sullivan, Leslie Ransom, Tina Corvin, Dan Bennett, Susan Pierce, Brian Rusaw, Lisa Levin, Loretta Lazie, Marian Davidson, and Robin Borden. 3. Boys State winner Steve Matulis (11) is pictured here standing between alternates Jeff Jaech (11) and Derek McKown (11). 2. Girls State representatives are juniors Cathy Muller, Kathy Kjos, and Trina Mangione. 4. NMSQT Award winners: Jill Reves, Lea Appleton, Martha Denham, and Linda Oakes and the Finalists are: Greg Brown, John Simmons, and Carolyn Strong. (not pictured: Duane Armstrong, Christine Ellis, Cathy Endo, Marilyn Craft, and Mike Wong.) 5. Daisy Chain consists of: (front row): Paula Gooderum, Debbie Casale, Michelle Friedrich, Liann Lech, Donna Ritter, Valerie Stadelbacher, Jennifer Read, Leslie Holsinger, Sheryl Miller, Sandi Rangel; (middle row): Michelle Christy, Terri Dipadova, Ruta Raterman, Tracy Morrow, Maria Brandon, Jenne Harriss, Leslie Ransom, Stephanie Silver, Sabrina Lee, Lea Appleton; (back row): Jill Kross, Susan Schrader, Kelly Menzia, and Jill Reves.

Sports Recap and

For the first time, KOALA wishes to recognize Poly's athletes who have won awards for their supreme talents. KOALA gives the credit due to these men and women who have gone beyond the point of "good" and have exhibited special talents in their respective sports. Therefore, congratulations to Poly's three All-Americans (as of March 10, 1983), Sandy Alexander, John Connolly, and Mike Hallisey. It's other two goals are to acknowledge Poly's All-Ivy award winners and to cover other peaks reached by some winter teams.

All three of Poly's All-Americans happened to be in water sports. Sandy Alexander (12) has been named to the select group two years. She hoped to make it three (the '83 decisions had not been made at press time), explaining the satisfaction which the award brings her, "It makes me feel good to know that all those long hours in the pool have finally paid-off with national recognition."

John Connolly (12) and Mike Hallisey (12) were recognized for their water polo prowess. Connolly was chosen as a point driver while Hallisey was awarded the honor for his position on the team as hole man. The All-Americans are selected by the coaches of the specific sports, which gives Hallisey "a feeling of self-accomplishment."

1982-1983 All-Ivy Leaguers were: (Football) Donnie Bulmer (Offensive MVP), LaRoy Alexander, Adrian Williams, Teddy Taylor (Defensive MVP), Jeff Lewis, Mike Martin, Reggie Clark, Mike Wong, and Jay Leubs. (Cross Country) John-Mark Staude, Art Jackson, Matthew Forstie, Kendahl Mizner, Sandy Utterback, and Julie French. (Volleyball) Kelly Obeso (MVP), Ann Hubbard, and Sue Schrader. (Water Polo) Andy Busch, Jon Read, Don Wight, John Connolly, Alan Wilson, and Mike Hallisey (MVP). (Girls' Tennis) Michelle Hain, Tina Kopcha, Jeanne Thoele, Heidi Hofmann, Cathy Muller, and Jenne Harriss. (Boys' Basketball) Reggie Miller (MVP), David Myers, Tobin White, Ben Mascari, and Dan Bennett. (Girls' Basketball) Stacy Hunt (MVP), Kelly Obeso, JoAnn Haselrig, and Aleshia Poole. (Soccer) Felix Jorin (MVP), David Cole, John Wynne, John-Mark Staude, Brian Bannon, Jon Gonzalez, Doug Stevens, Dana Cogswell, Kendahl Mizner, and Matt Moelter.

Special Achievements

For the past five years Poly has captured the CIF championship in basketball, the first four being won by the girls; this year's championship gained by the boys. Never having lost to North after the Raincross tournament, the '83 champs beat every team they faced, leading to the semi-finals against Capistrano Valley. Blitzing past the Cougars, they headed into the 3A championship game matched against Palm Springs at the Long Beach Arena on March 5th. In front of a crowd in excess of 12,000, they played a superior game — beating the Indians 76-53.

The press did not expect the Bears to win a single game in the state playoffs due to the intense competition. Much to the dismay of Los Angeles' 4A champion, Banning High School, Poly upset them 79-77. Under the high caliber of play by Reggie Miller and David Myers they stretched their lead to ten points at a few instances during the second half. Thanks to expert free throwing in the final seconds of the game, Poly was able to hold on for the victory.

Although others expected the girls' basketball team to be "eaten by Ivy" after they had "eaten" the league and all of CIF the previous years the ladies still managed to win Ivy by two games over North. Winning their first-round game in the 4A division, after four years, they succumbed to Long Beach Poly in the second round. The dynasty had finally come to an end.

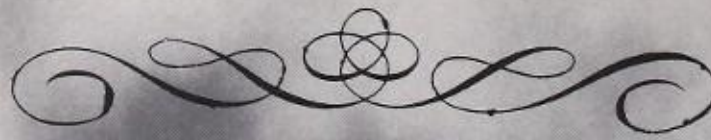

Excluding their appearance in the CIF 3A finals in 1977, the soccer team made their highest showing. Surprising CIF officials, who had ranked them 18th out of 32 playoff-bound teams, the Bears advanced all the way to the semi-finals on March 10.

Under the superb goaltending of Brian Bannon (12), the "footers" compiled a 19-4-1 overall record, including 12 shutouts by the combined efforts of Bannon and Doug Stevens (12). The team's hopes of reaching the finals were shattered when they were ousted 3-1 by San Gabriel.

During the CIF semi-finals at Long Beach, Dave Myers (12) guards the ball while looking for an open "hole."

Reflecting back on the pinnacles of the polygraph, we find a year of computers to chaos; from movies to miniskirts; from the Bruins to bobby-socks. A new royal face entered the scene with Prince William Arthur Phillip Louis, the new baby of Prince Charles and Princess Diana. Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip came to "sunny" California for a week, when it rained. Also in the international scene, the deaths of Princess Grace of Monaco and Leonid Brezhnev, the Soviet leader, saddened the world. Travelers were thrilled as gas prices dropped from $1.40 a gallon down to 99 cents. The morality and legality of abortion and the establishment of voluntary school prayer were controversial issues confronted by our legislators. Many Americans were upset and frustrated when President Ronald Regan sent our army to keep peace in the Middle East. Our oldest president, Ronald Reagan became seventy years old while in office. Here in California, Jerry Brown gave up his position of Governor to

George Deukmajian. Deukmajian, however, inherited a state in chaos. The California government went bankrupt and almost resorted to the use of IOU's. California elected Bill Honig as its new State Superintendent of Public Instruction. He proposed many new changes to enhance the school, including graduation requirements of two years of a foreign language, two years of science, four years of English, two years of math, and a semester of computer literacy.

Chaos and power outages resulted from a powerful storm here in California. On March 1, a tornado hit LA. This same storm demolished the Santa Monica pier and flooded homes all over Riverside County. Here in Riverside the storm caused a blackout at Poly for a day and interrupted the daily routine of students and faculty. Devin Donner (12) stated, "I went home and got several candles and brought them back for Art class." Mike Sullivan (12) said, "We told ghost stories in English and lit Bunsen burners in Physics." Lori Chris- topolis (12) however, "sat in U.S. History and listened to Mr. Davidson's bad jokes." Scott Pianalto (11) had to continue with Chemistry when Mr. Ringwald, "lit the Bunsen burners and continued with class as usual." Also in our hometown, workers caused havoc with city streets as they tore up the asphalt to put in new cable television lines. A new pizza parlor, Domino's Pizza, began its business by guaranteeing delivery in 30 minutes.

"Totally; fer sure dude," was the language of the Poly "Valley Girls" who donned mini-skirts and polka-dotted shirts. "Rock-a-billy" styles came to us from England while we returned to styles from the 50's with bobby socks. Home computers were the newest craze, for new technology came out with more advanced and less expensive models. Students fed quarter after quarter into popular video games like "Centipede" and "Donkey-Kong."

Individuals were behind every success at Poly. The boys' varsity basketball team led the school to a spirit-raising CIF championship with star, Reggie Miller (12). The rowdies made basketball games unique and exciting under the leadership of Jerry Baker (12), whose active spirit warranted him an article in the Riverside paper. Sarah McNeil (9), fiddle player, won first place in the Riverside Starcades, and Lea Appleton (12), flutist, was honored with second place. Budding photographer, Johnny Perone (12), received $225 in camera equipment for his winning photo for the cover of the telephone book. After many wonderful years of teaching, Walter Davidson, social studies, and Doris Ann Bishop, English and Yearbook Advisor, retired as well as Christine Rath, library assistant. Tracy Morrow (12) reigned over Homecoming as fantasies came true during a day of "Fairy Tales!" Taffeta dresses were popular at the Mid-Winter Ball in February as well as at Homecoming. A new, stricter tardy rule was enforced to keep students prompt. Two new clubs were formed to keep students busy and active in school. The 999 Club spread its philosophy of happiness, while the Jamuel Bears, Poly's running club, raised money for the Riverside Youth Service Center by running across California. Kim Hughes (9) remembered participating in the Trans-California Relay and "running with bombs going off just over the hill." Kent Stuade (11) remembered when "the residents of Blythe called the sheriff and reported that a young man (Scott Pianalto, 11) was being chased by a jeep on country roads."

In the sports world, a new football league, the United State's Football League (USFL), was formed with a season from March to September. Fans could indulge in their passion of watching football all year round. The UCLA Bruins won the Rose Bowl, with the Washington Redskins victorious at the Super Bowl. Ray Malavasi was fired as head coach of the LA Rams, while Fernando Valenzuela was awarded a record $1,000,000 salary by the Dodgers.

Perhaps the biggest event in the arts was the final episode, of M*A*S*H, which aired February 28. The Winds of War and The Thorn Birds were popular movies for television. The world was greatly saddened by the deaths of musician Karen Carpenter and actors Marty Feldman and Henry Fonda. The most popular movie starred not an actor or an actress, but a creature from another world — E.T. Along with E.T., Tootsie, Ghandi, Officer and a Gentleman, and Rocky III, were the main box office hits. The US Festival rocked fans for three solid days of music in the summer and again in May, while after years of popularity, The Who gave their farewell concert. Here at Raincross Square, Dingo Boingo and Adam Ant played for fans in Riverside. With brilliant acting and clear voices, Poly demonstrated its own talents in the musical production, Gypsy, and the fall play, You Can't Take It With You. The vitality and excitement in these productions typified the spirit of individuals and the great range of our polygraph throughout the entire year.

More Amazing Responses

As the polygraph continued, the answers kept coming. Matt Turnbull (12) said "On Homecoming Night, Bobby King (12) and I took the princesses, Jenne Harriss and Jennifer Lowry, respectively, out to dinner. I had to cut Bob's dinner on account of his broken arm. Then when I went to pay for dinner, my Master Card had expired!!" Maxine Pinedo (12) said she remembered "when Mrs. Roberts' 1st Period class T.P.ed her room after a Pep Rally." Robin Borden (12) couldn't decide between getting the lead role in Gypsy and receiving a scholarship to U.S.C. LaRoy Alexander (12) and Allen Henry (11) both agreed that the best event was "Beating Ramona in football." Kirsten Monson (12) recalled the day in chemistry when Mr. Ringwald tried to teach us that there was no such thing as suction. Jeff Adcock (11) piped up with, "What about hickies, Mr. Ringwald?" Mr. Ringwald did not know what to say. (Rumor has it that he didn't know what a hicky was.) Ann Hubbard (12), being an inquisitive chemistry student, learned the true chemistry of hickies from a superior source and gave the class a lecture on hickies, including diagrams and examples."

1. Dana Cogswell (11) looks deep into Jenne Harriss' (12) eyes. 2. Stephanie Brown (10) and Ken Mills (11) both agree that the Midwinter Ball is the best event of the year. 3. Dan Bennett and Amy Bailor, both Seniors, sigh as they hear another "tall" joke. 4. Philip Floyd (12) looks up when he realizes he has been caught. 5. These "Hungry Bears" devour another lunch.

Polygraph Concludes

The polygraph concluded with the question, "What was your most memorable experience of the year?" Jeff Jaech (11) said, "Being accepted to go to Denmark." Johnny Holmes (10) said his most memorable experience was "When Jed Baker (10) knocked over Mr. Webb's desk." Thea Norman (11) insisted that her most memorable moment was "Blowing up balloons for Spotlight balloon grams at 4:00 in the morning." Derek McKown (11) recalled boogie boarding through the Canyon Crest River. Valerie Stadelbacher (12) was most embarrassed when, "Lea Appleton and I were coming back from lunch and the car stalled in the intersection." Jill Reves (12) admitted her most memorable event was making pink and purple footprints on the sidewalk at midnight.

1. Tiffany Smith (9) studies during lunch. 2. Walter Gant (9) explains to Steve Bobach (9) how a computer works during his computer class. 3. Matt Forstie (12), Jennifer Lowry (12), Jennifer McNeil (12), and Johnny Perrone (12) display their dramatic qualities as they portray the Pilgrims discovering Plymouth Rock. 4. Jenny Read (12) imitates "The Man From Atlantis." 5. Martha Denham (12) bites her nails before the Math test. 6. As Matt Moelter (11) looks disgusted, Derek McKown (11) studies to be a father. 7. Mr. Hodges attempts to help Seniors, Lisa Kelson and Susan Wellenkamp, with their calculus.

Final Results of Polygraph Revealed

The final answers were some of the best. Jim Neff's (9) best experience was "Finally getting to Poly." Jeanine Myers (10) said her best memory was when the "Girl's Basketball team won Ivy." John-Mark Staude (12) said his best experiences were winning Ivy in three sports: Cross Country, Soccer, and Track. Alan Wilson's (12) best experience of the entire year was "Graduating."

After the polygraph had tested the entire studentbody, a sigh of relief was heard. Only one startling revelation was made — that Poly is number one because of its students. The students displayed their enthusiasm and spirit not only in sports, but also in their pursuit of excellence in academics, industrial and fine arts.

1. As Sandi Rangel (12) envies, Jill Kross' (12) Suzanne Strucker's (10), and Stephanie Brown's (10) fashionable clothes, Carolyn Franzen (10) prefers her own taste in clothing. 2. Brian Nejedly (11) acts "sly as a fox" as he waves to all the women of his dreams. 3. Robyn Jones (12) says "Don't you look at me like that!" 4. Seniors Terri Ward and Maxine Pinedo relax after a hard day of "academics." 5. "Heh, heh, heh," chuckles Sharon Born (12) to Jim Bigelow (11), "I'll get you my sweetie, and your little dog too."

FRESHMAN That's one down and three to go! We wish you well during your next three years of high school.

SOPHOMORES You're not only half-way through, but are now upperclassmen. Good luck in your last two years.

JUNIORS Congratulations!! You're now Seniors! We hope you will have the same spirit and enthusiasm the class of '83 did. But remember, "You are the class of '84. You've got more!!"

And to the SENIORS — The class of '83 has had more enthusiasm, drive, and spirit than any other Senior class. Though now it's over, we hope you never forget the friends and memories made here. Always remember "We're the best we can be. We're the Class of '83!!" We wish you a happy life ahead.
